

LANDESVERTEIDIGUNGS-AKADEMIE
WIEN

PIP Consortium of Defense Academies
and Security Studies Institutes

Study Group Information

Multiethnic State or Ethnic Homogeneity: The Case of South East Europe

3rd Workshop of the Study Group
"Crisis Management in South East Europe"

Vienna, April 2002

Publishers:

National Defence Academy, Vienna /
Institute for Peace Support and Conflict Management in co-operation with:
PFP-Consortium of Defence Academies
and Security Studies Institutes

Editor:

Mag. Predrag Jurekovič

Managing Editors:

CAPT Mag. Ernst M. Felberbauer
Edin Karabeg B.A.
Hrvoje Miloslavič
Mag. Andreas Wannemacher
Dario Aničić-Župarič

Layout:

Zeichenstelle Landesverteidigungsakademie, Vienna.

Production:

Druck- und Kopierstelle Landesverteidigungsakademie, Vienna.

Address:

Stiftgasse 2a, 1070 Vienna, AUSTRIA

ISBN: 3-901328-68-8

CONTENTS

Predrag Jurekovic Introduction.....	5
Arian Starova The Principle of Non-forced Change of Borders versus the Principle of Self-Determination of Peoples.....	7
Nicolae Micu Overcoming Conflict in the Balkans.....	19
Frederic Labarre Peace Building in the Balkans: The Need to Stay the Course.....	27
Yantsislav Yanakiev The Bulgarian Ethnic Model - A Factor of Stability in the Balkans.....	37
Octavian Sofransky Ethno-political Conflict in Moldova.....	73
Dragan Simic/Veljko B. Kadijevic The Multi-Ethnic State and Ethnic Homogeneity - An Artificial Dilemma in the Case of New Yugoslavia.....	99
Edita Tahiri Independent State of Kosovo - The Contribution for Stability in the Region.....	107
Drago Pilsel The Role of Journalism in the Prevention of Conflicts and in the Sustention of Multi-Ethnic, Multi-Cultural and Multi-Religious Society.....	115